

R.J. Vermeij

University of Twente, The Netherlands

Research Results: Publication vs Valorisation

The European Framework Programme for Research and Technological Development has clear objectives towards increasing competitiveness of Europe as a knowledge-based economy. This drive for valorisation of research output seems contradictory to academic traditions, but should not be interpreted as such. This communication will demonstrate how modern universities approach this perceived contradiction and how researchers combine the objectives of the European Framework Programme with their professional objectives.